We appreciate you taking the time to open this brochure and, through it, embark on the journey that every pilgrimage entails.

The path you will take within these pages is virtual, imaginary, but it can become real soon.

We would be pleased if we could convey to you the same enthusiasm that the entire Engrupo team feels for each of the places we suggest.

We are not proposing just another trip, absolutely not: We are proposing a path that is not only geographical but, above all, a path of inner renewal that is rooted in certain especially significant places for the believer, such as the Holy Land, the places of Mary, the paths of the apostles, and many others.

We want the quality of our services and our friendly guidance to remain our hallmark – the reason why people continue to trust us year after year, just as many friends have done since 1995, and some even since as far back as 1973.

History

1973

The man in the picture was called Jose Lacasa Muñoz, the grandfather of the current generation running the company. He was a hard-working, visionary and pioneering man.

In 1973, after returning with his family from an immigrant journey in Paris (where the father of the current generation was born) full of experiences and hard work, he decided that it was not enough to treasure those memories; he wanted to share them. Thus the first journey was born: a modest bus company that, over time, would weave dreams on wheels.

He didn't just drive buses; he built bridges to new horizons. Along the way, the unexpected became a new direction: from the earthly roads to the open skies. The bus company transformed, like a chrysalis that gives way to a butterfly, into a travel agency. Thus began this odyssey as a family dedicated to the fascinating world of tourism and pilgrimages.

Today, we look back with pride at the path that Pepe Lacasa forged, as his dreams became those of our father, and these are still very much alive in the daily work of the family, more than 50 years later. Each pilgrimage carries with it the legacy of that first bold step. We are a family that not only tells travel stories, but lives and shares them.

On each journey, we carry in our backpacks the essence of those who came before us and the promise to continue building, with each experience, a future full of unforgettable stories.

1995

JOSE LUIS & MARIBEL

In 1995, the parents of the current generation, José Luis Lacasa and María Isabel Cartagena, guided by an unwavering faith and the support of priest friends, founded Engrupo Viajes. Their objective was clear: not only to organize trips, but again, to build bridges that unite hearts on the path of faith.

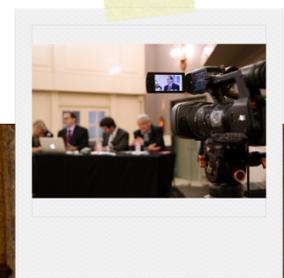

With the support and blessing of these priest friends, Engrupo Viajes became a reference for those who seek to live their faith in community, both regionally and nationally, and in recent years, internationally. From Valencia, the place where this dream was born, to every corner of Spain, some countries in Europe and America, we have extended our hands to those who wish to explore the holy places, under the umbrella of excellence.

For more than 30 years, we have woven a network of friendships that transcends borders, connecting hearts from different points in the world that are significant to our faith.

In 2017, the entire family faced a challenge when José Luis was diagnosed with a serious illness. He fought bravely, but on November 9, 2019, at the age of 53, he embarked on his final journey to the House of the father.

Since 2008, his son Sergio Lacasa has not only travelled with his father, but also worked in the company, which is much more than a business: it is a legacy. In 2017, José Luis delegated the management to Sergio, continuing the family tradition.

In 2023, Ivan, his brother, joined the company after completing his design studies. Both brothers, together with their mother, continue the family mission, expanding their activity with the help of God and the support of friends on both sides of the ocean, and throughout Europe.

BUT TO SERVE.

Why travel?

-It creates a close bond between members of the Christian community: Spending a lot of time in a group helps bring people together.

-Memories bring community members together: Our clients often tell us: "In the end, what people remember are the pilgrimages."

- Financial support: A portion of the cost of the trip is dedicated to the needs of the groups. This support varies depending on the needs of the church, and we really like to help the churches that help us.

-Pastoral Work: Pilgrimages allow us to approach the Gospel in an experiential way, growing through shared experiences.

- Cultural discovery: It allows you to discover the cultural, historical and artistic wealth of each destination, with experiences that enrich our knowledge of the world.

- Disconnection and spiritual renewal: Let us leave the worries of the world behind and focus on what is truly important: God, our family, and our loved ones. (John 17:16)
